

Biography

Kavy Akrawi, CEO of RT Group, one of Iraq's largest holding companies, covers an array of industries, including telecom, security solutions, digital banking, and more. Born and raised in the United States, Mrs. Akrawi, with her Kurdish roots, moved to Erbil, Iraq, in the northern Kurdistan Region 10 years ago to take on such an ambitious position.

Kavy Akrawi was interested in the role as she understood very early that there were issues between both countries that could benefit each other. For this reason, she established RT America Inc. (RTA), a telecommunications company that creates technical solutions to connect companies from the Far East to the West and vice versa. RTA works closely with the largest telecommunications companies in the Middle East, especially Iraq, providing a strategic network with the best customer capabilities. Due to this, RTA manages a team of experts assigned to bid for US government tenders, providing solutions to connect its bases worldwide. For almost ten years, alongside being a part of one of the biggest telecom companies in Iraq,

RTGroup, Kavy Akrawi successfully leads the operations for a corporation consisting of other prominent players in the industry, such as Allai Newroz Telecom, Symphony Telecom, Fastlink 4G LTE, and more. Mrs. Akrawi obtained her education at the University of Tennessee, USA, with a diploma in science in Communication and Information. That played a role in choosing her career path, understanding that she can provide people with connections and ways of communication.

Before moving to the Middle East in 2009, Mrs. Akrawi gained significant experience in the USA, working in marketing and administration departments. One of her most notable achievements in the country was working for America's Promise, an initiative founded by Gen. Colin Powell, where she organized annual marketing campaigns and was responsible for confidential data entries and mailings. After her progressive career growth in the United States,

Mrs. Akrawi, inspired to make a difference not only in the USA but also in the Middle East, 2009 took an offer from the Qatar Foundation to lead special Projects and Head International Relations. With a Western mentality and Middle Eastern roots, she brightened the Foundation with her modern ideas to improve the country's image. Mrs. Akrawi was a chosen representative for the Foundation during all international events and business trips. She was excellent at organizing conferences in Doha and expanding the country's relations with worldwide-known companies.

2012, Kavy Akrawi was invited to join RT Group in Iraq and direct the company. In a short time, Mrs. Akrawi showed her worth to the Board. In addition to her CEO position, Kavy Akrawi supervises all company legal contracts and represents the Group in all international affairs. Driven by the company's mission, Kavy Akrawi is responsible for the corporation's growth, maximizing operational excellence, and delivering financial performance.
